HARRISON AND PHELPS.

Sir: I am one of the delegates-at-large from Virginia to the Chicago Convention. As such I can cheerfully, honestly and enthusiastically support any one of the many worthy and gallant Republicans so fre-quently named in "The Tribune." But as I cannot vote for all, I must select one. What is wisdom in this crists? Mr. Blaine struck the keynote when he said in substance that the principles of the party were greater than any man. I believe we can elect any man we nominate. But there are certain localties that are doubtful. All things being equal, we should make our ticket in a way to take these doubt ful localities from that category, and place them in he column "certain for the Republicans." These

That Harrison and Phelps can insure Indiana, New-Jersey and Virginia, I have no doubt. Can any man give a reason why Harrison cannot carry Indiana? I have never heard of one. If we want that State why talk of Gresham, when the people of that State want Harrison? If Ohio, Iowa and Michigan are

Again, the Prohibition vote in Virginia is going to be a factor. For the first time they have a full electoral ticket, and two out of the three of its Votes will come from the Democrats in this State. Sir: Fortunately, among the gentlemen named for the Presidency by the people perhaps more than by the politicians, is one who possesses every qualification as a campaign leader and whose record guarantees illustrious service in the Presidential chair after and he may succeed, if Depew is not in the field. election. Senator Allison, of Iowa, gifted by nature | Dopew could carry New-York, but he might lose Kansas with a profound mind, polished by scholarly study, and lows. Harrison will have a great pull in the conof fine personal appearance and magnificent physique, fident claim, which is set up for him, that he can carry in the prime of mature manhood and blessed with a State which bleine lost in '84, and the Harrison men an inexhaustible fund of reserve energy, would, if urge Phelps for second place, because he can carry nominated, make the strongest candidate for the New-Jersey, another State lost by Blaine four years party, and, if elected, a President of whom the whole ago. It must not be overlooked that this is indeed a country could be proud. He is neither a "dark strong combination. It will receive attention in the horse" nor a "compromise candidate," nor a "factional representative," but a worthy exponent of the best Republicanism of the day. With a long and honorable career in Congress, he is at present chairwhere he is recognized as the peer of any man, in either party, now in political life, for his intellectual attainments, devotion to the public service, absolute and with a career immarred by personal jealousies or political bitternesses.

For the Vice-tresidency the man now most prominently mentioned by extract and active Republicans in all sections of the country is Mr. Phelips, of Now-Jersey. No other name could add so much strength to the licket. Mr. Phelips, like Semaior Allison, is a leader of the party with a brithant career as jurist, Minister to Austria and conspicuously able service in the House of Representatives; and is, moreover, a state-sman of patriotic views, a winning orator, a han of large wealth and also of great generosity, whose business enterprises and political preminence have brought lifth into friendly relationship with men of influence in every section of the Union. Just where the Republican party is weak, Phelips is strong; of Connecticut ancestry, and even yet continuing his connection in that important State, living as a young man in New-York and still transacting business there, now a resident of New-Jorsey and throughout her borders, beloved for his private charities as well as renowned for his political victories, he would bring an excellent chance of success in all three of these States impossible with any other man. His nomination would be extremely popular with all who know him personally or by reputation, leaders and followers alike, excepting the Mugawings! By them he would doubtless be bitterly denounced as a lingering element of "Blaineism." But will the fact that he is known to the country as one of Mr. Blaine's most loval and valued friends, besides being a trusted Republican leader himself, serve to injure his chance with the convention! This question may be safely left for the delegates to answer for themselves.

With the above leaders and a platform time to their well-known economic and patriotic principles, the Republicans will surely triumph again in November and give the lie to recent vain boastings of Democratic orstors that the party which saved the Union is now more bund itself.

MURAT HALSTEAD ON THE FIELD. BUOYANT VIEWS OF MR. SHERMAN'S PROSPECTS-

A SURVEY OF THE SITUATION. Chicago, June 13.-Murat Halstoad, Editor of "The Cincinnati Commercial-Gazette," came in on an early morning train to-day to look after the interests of Senator Sherman. After a morning nap, he came down into the rotunds of the Grand Pacific and was soon the centre of an admiring crowd. He received the reporters with his usual urbanity and talked with them with the utmost freedom and in his most characteristic

"Ohio is undoubtedly for Sherman, reports to the contrary notwithstanding," said he. "There may be a Republican States, why play for them, and still keep contrary notwithstanding," said he. "There may be a the doubtful States doubtful? I would like to elevate the cank in the delegation—there generally is one crank in the delegation of the d crank in the delegation-there generally is one crank in one, if there is that. It will, therefore, stand by Mr. Sherman, with Governor Foraker at the front, loyal to the choice of the State. Sherman has already a large vote assured-more than 300-and he will grow. Blaine is out of the race for good and all, but it is no Bleine's friends, who would gladly be for him if he

"And about Gresham ?" "About Gresham-there is one terrific objection to him. If nominated, he would have to resign from the man of the most important committee of the Senate, bench, and that would give Cleveland an opportunity to put in some old Democrat to preside over Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin, and that won't do.

The Gresham boom reminds me of the manner we ran the Bristow boom in Cincinnati. We did not help Bristow, but we beat Blaine and played --- at the same time. Hayes got it. Why the way we worked for Mr. Bristow was a caution. We packed the galleries for him with 5.000 persons, who were all supplied with Bristow fans and shouted themselves hoatse; but it was no ge. We had run the boom way into the ground and broken it off."

GRESHAM'S MINNESOTA FRIENDS. THE DELEGATION NEARLY UNANIMOUS FOR HIM-

WARM WORDS FOR THEIR FAVORITE. Chicago, June 13 (Special).-Frank F. Davis, of Minneapolis, who heads the list of delegates at large of Minnesota, brings the news that a large proportion of the delegation of that State favor the nomination of Gresham. He says :

Twelve of the fourteen delegates of Minnesota are for Gresham. I shall vote for him as long as he is a candidate, and I have no second choice. The two detegates who have not yet declared themselves for Gresham are R. B. Langdon, of Minneapolis, who is a brother-in-law of General Alger, of Michigan, and of course will vote for him for President, and G. G. Hartley, of Brainerd, who has not yet expressed any preference. I look to Hartley's supporting Gresham and that Langdon will also support Gresham as seen as Alger drops out as a candidate, for the sentiment of Minnesota Republicans is overwhelmingly for Gresham. The soundness of the Gresham movement is shown by the fact that it is spontaneous; that it springs directly from the people; there is no machine back of it. The Republicans of Minnesota like Gresham because the ink he is a courageous public servant and will be no man's tool, and no corporation's tool. If he is elected President, they think he will enter upon the Presidency free of any oblications to any faction of the Republican party, or of any band of leading Republican politicians. will if he is elected to the Presidency. considerable of a contest with the railroads in our State and therefore the Republican farmers are glad to see a man who is free from corporation influence. Judge Gresham is hostile to corporations, but he is in-dependent of them and that is what is liked.

We think we see in him a man of the type of Abraham Lincoln, of old-time Republicanism, and therefore a man who can bring to his support every independent. thinking citizen, whether Republican or Democrat. It is useless to nominate a candidate who will merely get machine Republican support; we must have sentiment behind our candidate, for it is sentiment that will enable us to win. It will effect nothing to hold our National Convention and pominate a candidate for President, unless we represent the wishes of the people, and the people, to my observation in Minnesota, demand the nomination of Judge Gresham, and I think the people in the remainder of the Union are making the same domand. It is appropriate if we take a man of the Abraham Lincoln type that some friend of Lincoln should cominate Gresham, and we have therefore selected the Presidency, to nominate Gresham."

R. G. Evans, of Minneapolis, the member of the National Republican Committee from Minnesota, confirms the statement of Mr. Davis that twelve of the fourteen delegates of Minnesota are for Gresham. "The Gresham movement," he says, " was not a manufactured one, but a truly spontaneous one. If Mr. Blaine had not written his letter of declination, we should have unanimously supported him, but when his letter was published we accepted it as final and turned about to look for another candidate. The Mugwumps would have to work had to say anything against Gresham, and what harm would there be to the Republican candidate for President? It seems to me that the aim of a political party is to get votes, and if some of them. Political party is to get votes, and if some of the votes for a Republican candidate for President come from Mugwumps we ought to be glad to get thom. Politicians should remember that we are not in power and that we need votes to get into power, and I shall be glad to get them from any source that is not dishonorable."

FAITH OF HARRISON'S SUPPORTERS. A TALK WITH ONE OF HIS FRIENDS-THE GRESHAM OBSTRUCTION.

Indianapolis, June 13 (Special).-While General Harrison's supporters are making no definite estimate as to how many votes he will have on the first ballot in the Chicago Convention, they confidently express the opinion that it will be found that he stands next to Sherman. D. M. Ramsdell, one of the confidential friends of Harrison, before leaving here for Chicago, said :

"I anticipate that the contest in the convention will resolve itself into the field against Sherman. In case Sherman is beatan I am confident that Harrison will be nominated. The shifting of circumstances and the logic of events lead naturally to that conclusion. I think that Harrison is the best man, not only for Indiana but for the entire country."

"What of Gresham's candidacy ?" "It is an obstruction to the growth of the sentiment in favor of Harrison. I will say further that if General Harrison is not nominated it will be owing entirely to a supposed division in Indiana. Mind, I do not say a real division, for there is none, but a supposed division which will tend to discourage his nds in other States. This false impression Gresham's supporters are encouraging for obvious reasons."

all probable?"

"I do not. I regard it as entirely out of the question. His support will injure Harrison in the manner I have indicated, but it is not sufficient to give him any chance of success himself. If the truth were known, Indiana is as completely for Harrison as Ohio is for John Sherman."

OHIO REPUBLICANS NOT CREDULOUS.

Columbus, Ohio, June 13 (Special) .- Ohio Republicans do not believe the story published to-day that Chairman Jones, has a letter from Blaine advising the nomination of Mr. Sherman. So many stories are printed each day only to be denied the next that this is rated with them. Sherman's friends in Ohio are confident and are making great claims for their candidate. Harrison has been growing in Ohio recently as one of the successors to the Blaine strength but Dopow or Foraker seem to be second choice in case Sherman is unable to make it after several ballots.

Poughheepsie, N. Y., June 13 (Special).-The chapel at Vassar College was crowded at commencement this morning. There were no decorations, nothing but a single bouquet of flowers on the platform. Prayer was offered by Dr. Taylor, president of the college. "An Intellectual Aristocracy" was the subject of an address by Miss Eugenia C. Kountze. She paid a high tribute to the ability of this country to elevate its lowest citizen. "The Tenement-house Reform in New-York" was the subject of a practical address by Miss Emily Lewi. Miss A. M. "The Future of the American Newspaper" was the subject of an address by Miss Effic Shaw. Miss Shaw conceeded the great work of the newspaper in gathering and disseminating the news, and declared that "for five cents a first-class opinion may be secured on any subject." Miss Resamond Fields sang a selection from Donizetti. Miss Adelaide Underhill considered "The Study of Comparative History" in a well-written and well-delivered address. The programme was concluded by a selection from Moszkowski by Pocock. The essays were all well written and they were generally spoken without hesitation. Dr. Tayressed the graduates, conferred the degrees and the exercises were brought to a close with the singing of the Doxology. Dr. Taylor announced that the preparatory department had been abolished, that Pro-

Harrison would carry Virginia because all the factions in the State could unite on him. He is of Virginia ancestry, and they would take pride in electing him. Our campaign would be aggressive from the start. Blaine's and sherman's friends have been at "outs" in the State. But we could all unite on the gallant Indianian, and have a love feast over a campaign like the one that gave us "Tippecance and Tyler too."

Dr. Leonard J. Gordon, the president of the Board of Health, said there had been an immense increase recently in what physicians call "filth diseases." The sewers are in a shocking condition and the proper authorities refuse to act. "If cholera should make its appearance here." he said, "we would be almost powerless to check it in the present condition of our sewers. That or any other disease which is promoted by filth would become epidemic at once and the result would be simply appailing."
